

[INDICATING NETWORK RESOURCE AVAILABILITY METHODS, SYSTEM AND PROGRAM PRODUCT]

Abstract

Methods, system and program product for determining network resource availability in order to avoid time delays caused by querying unavailable resources are disclosed. In one embodiment, the invention queries the network resource to determine network resource availability and response time, and indicates the network resource is available only if the network resource is determined to be available within a specified response time.